DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

1. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

The claims are directed to a judicial exception, an abstract idea; as such, pursuant to the Interim Guidelines on Patent Eligible Subject Matter (MPEP 2106)), the claims must have either physical transformation and/or a useful, concrete and tangible result. The claims fail to include transformation from one physical state to another. Although, the claims appear useful and concrete, a tangible result is not claimed. Merely obtaining a phase measurement or determining fringe orders is not sufficient to constitute a tangible result, since the outcome of the calculating or determining step has not been used in a disclosed practical application nor made available in such a manner (e.g. displayed on a monitor or stored in a computer readable medium) that its usefulness in a disclosed practical application can be realized. As such, the subject matter of the claims is not patent eligible.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

Art Unit: 2877

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 29 and 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Huntley et al (US 6,208,416).

Huntley et al show a method and apparatus for measuring shape of objects comprising:

a fringe projection means (Young's interferometer embodied by optical fibers);

an image capture and recording means (CCD);

a data processing means (computer, column 4, line 20).

The last clause of claim 29 recites that the fringe projection apparatus is variable such that an optimum series of projected wavelengths may be generated. The use of the terms "variable" and "may be" is not a positive limitation and has not been given patentable weight and only requires the ability to so perform.
